A SLEEPY GOVERNMENT.

For the last quarter of a century the United States Government appears to have been lying in a sort of commercial doze respecting the vast commercial empire lying at the South.

There are South of our republic fifteen republics and the empire of Brazil, and they cover an area ten times the size of France, Spain, Prussia and Italy. They are as large as the United States and the whole of Europe combined. The population of those countries amounts to about 50,000,000 of people. They are connected to us by land, and the most of them are nearer to New York than the State of California, and yet to many of the people of the United States the republics of Central and South America are almost unknown.

In 1837 our exports were valued at $752,180,902.

Of this amount we exported but $64,719,000 to Mexico and South and Central America.

Our annual mechanical and agricultural products are valued at about eleven thousand millions of dollars, while we seldom sold more than $75,000,000, worth of these products to our nearest neighbors, who buy in Europe at least three times as much as they get here.

The total commerce of the countries named in 1885 was as follows:

Imports.....$331,100,599.

Exports.....391,294,781.

Of the $332,100,599 of merchandise sold to those countries, the share of the United States was only $42,598,469. Yet we are their closest neighbor.

The report of the commissioners sent by our Government to Central and South America shows that the development of the Southern half of South America is nearly as rapid as the United States. Immigration is flooding in, internal improvements are opening new and fertile fields, and wealth is increasing in a ratio not exceeded by any other section of the globe.

Chili, Uruguay, and the Argentine Republic, almost unknown to many, are booming like our Western States and Territories. In 1876 the imports of the Argentine Republic were valued at $36,000,000. In 1884 they had reached $80,000,000. In 1876 the merchandise brought to that country from England, France, and Germany was valued at only $18,000,000, while in 1884 it was more than $53,000,000. The entire imports from the United States for twenty years were $6,000,000 less than those from the three commercial nations of Europe just named for the year 1884.

The nations of Europe are sending out drummers to secure the trade which the United States pays no attention to, and in nearly all these countries the action of free trade prevails.

The money resulting from the natural wealth of these countries goes to England, and England having a good thing commercially, now proposes to assist in the election of a free-trade President to secure the same supremacy of trade in the United States that it secures in South America.

The way for the United States to block the game is to place such a protective tariff on its own manufactures as to shut out English competition, and then stretch out its hand for the trade of South America.

They Won't Do It.

If young girls would do, as in other countries, hire out as help in hotels, there need be no Chinese employed in Carson. It is a respectable calling and no young person need be ashamed to occupy such a position.—Tribune.

Poor people in Carson consider it a disgrace to have their daughters do any kind of work. Some would rather beat the grocer, butcher and vegetable man for ten years than see their daughters work in a family. They are quite willing to see them do anything but work.

San Miguel has voted to build an $8,000 school house.

—Mrs. J. W. Mackay has found it necessary to publicly deny a rumor at Paris, which stated that she had placed her millions at the disposal of Boulanger for a corp d'etat in France.
